Death and Disaster In Japan Typhoons

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 15.—Full particulars of the disastrous typhoons and tidal waves which devastated Northern Japan at the close of September, causing great loss of life and property, both at sea and on shore, have been received by the steamer Glenogle, which arrived this morning.

Several thousand people lost their lives, the breakwater off Yokohama was swept away, liners were driven ashore, the Japanese battleship Shikishima stranded at Yokosuka, temples, public buildings, houses, etc., were destroyed and their occupants drowned. It was along the Japanese coast from Koduz to Odawara bay that the greatest loss of life occurred. Huge tidal waves swept away villages, over 600 lives being lost in the village Koyawata alone. At Kohachimara it is estimated that a similar number lost their lives.

From other points the tale of death is as heavy, for the typhoons seem to have spread disaster all over the northern part of Japan, and the seismic waves, which swept in and deluged the coast, particularly Odawara, caused greater loss of life than any storm since that awful disaster of the tidal waves of 1893. Several coasting steamers and a number of junks were totally wrecked at various points.

The large battleship Shikishima Kara, which was moored near the Akazaki fort, dragged her anchors and went ashore, but no lives were lost, and the warship was floated three days later. At Yokohama, the typhoon caused great damage to shipping. The German mail steamer Prussen and the steam freighter Pembrokeshire stranded.

The steamer Aoi Maru was wrecked outside the demolished breakwater and her crew was only saved at great risk of life by gallant seamen. The Aoi Maru had in tow four sailing vessels which she was endeavoring to save. Her master and chief engineer were washed overboard and drowned, but the remainder of the crew managed to reach the breakwater. The steamers Inabai Maru and Khalif, which had collided and were battering each other, were saved after much difficulty.

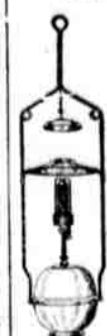

It was not at the big port, but at Odawara that death rode with such destruction on the storm. Shortly before noon on the 28th an immense tidal wave swept away the whole village of Koyata, or Koyawata. Two hundred houses were destroyed without the slightest warning and of the population in the two villages of about 1000 people, 600 were drowned. A survivor writing from the stricken coast, gives some awful word pictures of the ghastly sights seen after the waves subsided.

MORE GIFTS BY CARNEGIE.

London, Oct. 9.—Andrew Carnegie's gifts of $75,000 to Belfast and $35,000 to Limerick for the establishment of libraries have been accepted. In writing his acceptance of the proffered freedom of Limerick, Mr. Carnegie said this was an honor too great to be declined, and that his heart was always warm toward Erin.

LANTANA IN DANGER

The insects that came from Mexico recently and were sent to the Department of Agriculture and Forestry yesterday are all of the kind calculated to kill off the lantana in the islands. Included in the dried branches and other material sent are the many different kinds of insects just waiting for a little fostering care to be brought forth in all their mischievousness. There are insects that attack the roots and others that bore in the stalks of the lantana for all the world as the cane borer does with the sugar cane, sending out masses of literally chewed up fibre and leaving nothing but very thin walls in their onward course. There are others whose happiness is found in sapping the life out of the flowers.

With all this formidable array of insects there is great hope that the lantana will soon disappear from the flora of the Hawaiian Islands and become a thing of the past. Entomologist R. C. L. Perkins has succeeded in bringing out of the dried lantana stalks and leaves a large number of different varieties of insects of varying sizes. Some of them have already been freed and other lots will soon be turned loose on the unsuspecting lantana to ravage and pillage and lay waste.

POSTED ASHFORD BILLS

Strong in the faith of his righteousness, a native man named Iala sallied forth this morning with a basket full of red, green and yellow placards on which was announced in beautiful fat type that Ashford was the man for whom the voters should cast their ballots in the coming election.

Iala proceeded down King street and every place that suited his fancy was decorated with a gaudy placard. But disaster lurked in the wake of the unsuspecting prophet of Ashford. Mounted Patrolman Duvauchelle kept an eye on the faithful man and when the individual finally put a poster on an electric light post at the corner of Punchbowl and King streets, he was gathered in by the guardian of the law, for on the post stood written in bold black letters: "Post No Bills."

Iala protested in vain that he knew not English. The patrol wagon was called and Iala put behind the bars.

CLARK DENIES IT.

Charles Clark, who has charge of the detention camp at Kalihi, denies in toto what he terms the scurrilous article in this morning's paper with reference to the South Sea Islanders at the camp and the night reporter who went digging around in dark corners hunting for "news." He states that there was a luau Saturday night but that it was given by people of the camp who had clubbed together. Included in the number were a few South Sea Islanders and not a single one of these or, for that matter, any of the others, were drunk. He states further that the luau of Saturday night was the first one given in months by the people of the camp. Mr. Clark says that the article in this morning's paper was just one of those very common instances of the distortion of facts by the night reporter who, upon finding himself persona non grata at the luau, took occasion to malign and falsify.

Montague Cooke, son of C. M. Cooke, president of the Bank of Hawaii, who recently returned from Paris and London, has taken up the work of conchologist of the Bishop Museum and is now at work in Nuuanu valley. He is to be given a pass into all the places controlled by the government in order that he may succeed in getting all the different varieties of shells possible. Mr. Cooke graduated at Yale as a B. Ph. and then studied abroad for his chosen vocation.

There were in the neighborhood of 175 voters present at the meeting of the Republicans at the Walkiki end of the Tramways line last night and the speeches of S. F. Chillingworth, L. L. McCandless, Frank Andrade, Jonah Kumale and B. H. Kelekolio were listened to with great interest.

In a recent report Consul Hunt at Tamatave, says a French firm is now making cigarette paper from this product, and he says the paper presents the qualities of decided suppleness and strength, and as the fiber from the start is tasteless, inodorous and exceedingly clean, it certainly recommends itself to the most fastidious. But, he says, I would draw the attention of the paper manufacturers, always in search of new productions, to the possibilities of this fiber for other uses. These are too varied to quote, but will immediately suggest themselves to the scientific manufacturer, who might be interested in following the experiments.

A Beautiful Lot of COLORED PETTICOATS

The arrival of these skirts is opportune, as the rainy season is apparently here. The purchase was made on most favorable terms, which, as usual, we give you the benefit of. We would like you to examine these garments carefully—the style—the shape—the "hang"—the sewing—the finish and then the price.

- $1.00 for a handsome mercerized petticoat, light and shapely, full flare, two ruffles and 3 cords.
- $1.25 for a smart "spun glass" petticoat, with deep plaiting and 4-inch ruffle—you would say it was $2.00 at least.
- $1.50 for a black mercerized satin skirt, full dounce and four ruffles—very swell.
- $2.25 for a very effective style, made of fine mercerized skirting, double ruffle and six rows of stitched flat bands.
- $2.25 for a mercerized silk petticoat, extra full 18-inch dounce with 24 rows of stitched tucking, also at same price a beautiful line of black and white stripes. Included in this lot are a few handsome taffeta silk petticoats of the latest styles at $7.50 to $13.00 each.

STATE CAPITOL MUDDLE

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 15.—Though Washington has spent over $500,000 toward securing a new State Capitol since the last Legislature met, two years ago, it will be impossible for the Legislature which meets in January to use the new Senate house. By legislative authority Governor Rogers purchased the Thurston county courthouse at Olympia, and the State Capitol Commission let the contract for building two wings, in which the halls of the House and Senate are contained. The contractors have been slow in getting the building finished owing to delays in securing stone, structural steel and other materials.

The present situation means that the Legislature must meet again in a frame shack which has served as a legislative hall since the territorial days. This building originally cost $1200, and has received several additions, which give it anything but a slightly appearance. It is generally known as the Olympia "Cow's Head." In expectation that the new Capitol would be finished this building has been partly dismantled and allowed to decay. Now a new foundation must be put under it and the roof made rain proof before it can be used.

At its best it is unsanitary, inaccessible and lacking in every convenience. The State officers are greatly displeased that they must hurriedly put the old building into shape for use.

BUFFALO BILL ILL.

Fort Meade, S. D., Oct. 19.—Buffalo Bill is sick and may be forced to cancel the remainder of his American tour, as well as the European trip planned for his Wild West show for next year.

Colonel Cody is at present at Las Vegas, N. M., and has written Colonel Hayes, under whom he did his first scouting, telling of his illness and postponing his annual hunt for big game in the Big Horn mountains. In his letters Colonel Cody says he will probably be compelled to leave his show immediately without waiting to finish the season.
